PARTICIPANTS WILL:

- Develop a stronger understanding of why we need men as advocates and how they benefit from being fully engaged in gender equity work.
- Discuss how gender dynamics, roles, norms, and social conditioning link to the workplace and leadership.
- Explore how systemic advantages and disadvantages, privilege, and bias impact employees.
- Learn how the experience of “otherness” affects building relationships and bridging divides, and what it means to recognize multidimensional and intersectional identities.
- Recognize what effective advocacy and gender partnership look like.
